

MINE-X reportedly lost access to a key processing permit, potentially delaying half of next year's rare-earth output; the regulator's notice needs checking.